Why we collect and how long we keep your information

We collect and use your information for a variety of reasons. We need some information to send you member updates and event invites.

Some information processing is required by law, or in the public interest such as making sure we verify our customers' identities.

Some information is processed because you've given your consent to that, which can be withdrawn via unsubscribe links in the email updates or by emailing info@sfe.org.uk.

Other information we collect because we have legitimate business interests, for example, in:

- Understanding how our customers use our products, services and websites;
- Understanding and responding to customer feedback;
- Researching and analysing the services our customers want;
- Improving our services;
- Understanding the type of products and services our customers buy and how they use them;
- Personalise our offers so we're better able to provide offers and ideas that are relevant to you;
- Maintaining a public profile on both traditional and social media;
- Providing security over our business and with whom we trade; or
- Developing and maintaining relationships with vendors, partners and other companies and dealing with individuals who work for them in our sector.

We will keep your information for as long as it is reasonably necessary. It will depend on factors such as whether you have recently contacted us. We will also routinely refresh our information to ensure we keep it up-to-date.

Other uses

Legal requirements

Your personal information may also be processed if it is necessary on reasonable request by a law enforcement or regulatory authority, body or agency or in the defence of a legal claims. We will not delete personal information if relevant to an investigation or a dispute. It will continue to be stored until those issues are fully resolved.

Information we share

There are certain circumstances where we may transfer your personal data to employees, contractors and to other parties.

- We may also share your information with certain contractors or service providers. They may process your personal data for us, for example, if we use a marketing agency or platform provider. Other recipients/service providers include advertising agencies, customer relationship management systems, IT specialists, database providers, backup and disaster recovery specialists, email providers or outsourced call centres.
 - Our suppliers and service providers will be required to meet our standards on processing information and security. The information we provide them, including your information, will only be provided in connection with the performance of their function.
- We may also share your information with certain third parties. We will do this either when we receive your consent or because we need them to see your information to provide products or services to you. These include credit reference agencies, anti-fraud databases, screening agencies and other partners we do business with.

Your personal information may be transferred to other third party organisations in certain scenarios:

- If we're discussing selling or transferring part or all of our business the information may be transferred to prospective purchasers under suitable terms as to confidentiality;
- If we are reorganised or sold, information may be transferred to a buyer who can continue to provide services to you;
- If we're required to by law, or under any regulatory code or practice we follow, or if we are asked by any public or regulatory authority – for example the Police;
- If we are defending a legal claim your information may be transferred as required in connection with defending such claim.

Your personal data may be shared if it is made anonymous and aggregated, as in such circumstances the information will cease to be personal data.

Where your information will be held

When we share your information your information may be transferred outside the European Economic Area. We store our information on cloud servers located in the UK.

We will only transfer data to jurisdictions outside the scope of the European General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) where the appropriate safeguards set out in the GDPR are in place.

3 Your rights

Data Subject Rights

We've listed the rights you have over your information and how you can use them below.

These rights will only apply in certain circumstances. They will generally not be available if there are outstanding contracts between us, if we required by law to keep the information or if the information is relevant to a legal dispute.

• You can remove consent, where you have provided it, at any time.

- You can ask us to confirm if we are processing your information.
- You can ask for access to your information.
- You can ask to correct your information if it's wrong.
- You can ask us to delete your information.
- You have a right to be forgotten and you can ask that our systems stop using your information.
- You can ask us to restrict how we use your information.
- You can ask us to help you move your information to other companies.
 To help with that, you have a right to ask that we provide your information in an easily readable format to another company.
- You can ask us to stop using your personal information, but only in certain cases.
- You have the right to complain to the relevant supervisory authority.
